IMPORTANT NEW TAX INFORMATION

Under the Federal Income tax law, you are subject to certain penalties as well as withholding of tax at a 20 percent rate if you have not provided us with your correct social security number or other taxpayer identification number. Please read this notice carefully.

You (as a payee) are required by law to provide us (as payor) with your correct taxpayer identification number. If you are an individual, your taxpayer identification number is your social security number. If you have not provided us with your correct taxpayer identification number, you may be subject to a $50 penalty imposed by the Internal Revenue Service. In addition, interest, dividends, and other payments that we make to you may be subject to backup withholding starting on January 1, 1984.

Guidelines for Determining the Proper Identification Number to Give the Payor. Social Security numbers have nine digits separated by two hyphens: i.e., 000-00-0000. Employer identification numbers have nine digits separated by only one hyphen: i.e., 00-0000000. The table below will help you determine the number to give the payor.
